

Teambuilding under the Sails

Strengthen your team with a sailing trip

→ Teambuilding

→ In the sailing world, a well-coordinated crew is the main condition for success. Effective communication, team members complementing each other, cooperation and mutual trust are often more important than knowledge and characteristics of each individual. Develop these values within your team by sailing with us.

Based on many years of experience in the sailing world and work with numerous clients from the field of business, we have developed a team building program which unites the following elements, necessary in forming a stable and well-coordinated team:

- mutual trust
- effective communication
- satisfaction that stems from the cooperation
- escape from everyday life
- fun
- rewarding
- stress relief.

Participating in our team building does not require any sailing experience because a skipper provided by

SailingEurope is responsible for each crew. That way, your team gets acquainted with an unknown person that will become a leader in the true sense of the word: they will set the tasks and assign them to crew members, regardless of their position and hierarchy within the company.

Thanks to such approach, the members of your collective will learn to function effectively by overcoming the obstacles and tasks outside of the usual office situations and they will develop a new form of mutual relations.

For teams that already have sailing experience we can organize internal, private regattas where individual members will develop their sailing skills and understand the importance of team work through competition.

The team building program takes place aboard sailing yachts and catamarans which await for you in the SailingEurope private marina/base in Rogač on the island of Šolta.
